

Welcome at the WDI Lab at the University of Leipzig!

The WDI Lab (Web Data Integration Lab) at the University of Leipzig was a BMBF-funded project from 2010 through 2011, intending to develop and optimize data integration tools for market application, as well as to support the creation of a new spin-off in Leipzig. After founding the spin-off in early 2012 by three former employees of the project, the WDI Lab is continued at the Database Chair, Department of Computer Science, in order to implement new solutions and applications with respect to web data integration.